A Tour of Indian Law and the Full Course Curriculum

Law Refresher Course for a 1994 LLB graduate returning to practice | Updated October 2026

Part 1: How Indian Law Is Organised

1.1 The Constitution sits at the top

Every law in India draws its authority from the Constitution of India (1950). A law that conflicts with it is void (Article 13). The Constitution:

- creates the three organs: Legislature (makes law), Executive (enforces law) and Judiciary (interprets law)
- divides law-making power between the Centre and the States through the Seventh Schedule:
  - Union List: Parliament alone, e.g. banking, securities, income tax
  - State List: State Legislature alone, e.g. land, police, local government
  - Concurrent List: both, e.g. contracts, civil and criminal procedure, marriage, transfer of property. If they conflict, the central law usually prevails (Article 254).

1.2 Sources of law

Source	What it is	Example
Constitution	The supreme law	Article 21, right to life and personal liberty
Statutes (Acts)	Laws made by Parliament or a State Legislature	CPC 1908, Contract Act 1872
Delegated legislation	Rules, regulations and notifications made under an Act	SEBI Regulations, CPC Orders as amended by the High Court
Judicial precedent	Decisions of higher courts bind lower courts	Supreme Court law binds all courts (Article 141)
Custom and personal law	Customs and religious laws in family matters	Hindu and Muslim personal law

1.3 Hierarchy of courts (Andhra Pradesh example)

Level	Court	What it hears
1	Supreme Court of India, New Delhi	Final appeals, constitutional matters, Article 32 writs
2	High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Amaravati	Appeals, revisions, Article 226 and 227 writs
3	District and Sessions Court (e.g. at Nandyal)	District-level civil appeals and suits, sessions trials
4	Senior Civil Judge and Chief Judicial Magistrate	Civil suits above the junior limit, criminal trials
5	Junior Civil Judge and Judicial Magistrate	Smaller civil suits, criminal trials
Special	Tribunals and Commissions	Consumer Commissions, DRT, NCLT, Family Courts, MACT, RERA

Memory trick: "Constitution is the roof, statutes are the walls, rules are the bricks, and judgments are the cement that holds them together."

Part 2: The Major Changes Since 1994

These are the changes you most need to catch up on, because they did not exist when you graduated.

Year	Change	Why it matters
1996	Arbitration and Conciliation Act replaced the 1940 Act	Arbitration is now the main route for commercial disputes
1999 / 2002	CPC amendments	Strict timelines, limited adjournments, ADR under Section 89

Year	Change	Why it matters
2000	Information Technology Act	Electronic records, e-signatures, cyber offences
2002	SARFAESI Act	Banks recover secured loans without going to court
2005	RTI Act; Domestic Violence Act; Hindu Succession amendment	Daughters became coparceners (equal birthright in joint family property)
2013	Companies Act and the new Land Acquisition Act (RFCTLARR)	Both replaced Acts from the 1950s and 1890s
2015	Commercial Courts Act	Fast-track commercial suits with a strict 120-day written statement
2016	Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code; RERA	A new insolvency regime; protection for home buyers
2017	GST	One national indirect tax replaced many older taxes
2018	Specific Relief Act amendment	Specific performance is now the normal remedy, not discretionary
2019	Consumer Protection Act	E-commerce and product liability; e-filing of complaints
2023	Mediation Act; Digital Personal Data Protection Act	A formal mediation framework; data privacy law
1 July 2024	BNS, BNSS and BSA replaced the IPC, CrPC and Evidence Act	All criminal and evidence work now uses the new section numbers
21 Nov 2025	Four Labour Codes in force	They consolidate 29 central labour laws
1 April 2026	Income-tax Act, 2025 in force	Replaces the Income-tax Act, 1961

Verify before use: laws keep changing. Before you rely on a section in court, check the current bare Act on India Code (indiacode.nic.in) and recent judgments on SCC Online or Indian Kanoon.

Total: about 40 classes. Each class comes with its own PDF: the lesson, landmark and recent cases, memory tricks, a time-limit chart where relevant, and a test.

Part 5: How Each Class Works

1. Lesson: the important sections explained simply, with examples from your own business. Every concept states the section where it is defined and the sections that apply. Where a law has been replaced, the old section number is given too, e.g. "BNS S.303 (old IPC S.378)".
2. Cases: classic landmark judgments plus recent Supreme Court rulings.
3. Tricks: mnemonics and comparison tables to help you remember.
4. Test: one-line answers, short notes and a practical problem. You reply and I grade.
5. PDF: a downloadable copy of every class, so you can build your own notes file.

Part 6: Steps to Start Practising

- Enrolment: apply to the Bar Council of Andhra Pradesh with your LLB degree, marks memos, transfer and migration certificates, and the required declarations. A person who has been in other employment declares that they have left it.
- AIBE: after enrolment, pass the All India Bar Examination to receive the Certificate of Practice. It is an open-book, multiple-choice exam.
- Junior years: work under a senior advocate at the Nandyal courts for at least 1 to 2 years. Drafting and court craft are learned by doing.
- Your advantage: your 26 years in business, management and FMCG, plus your understanding of markets, give you a natural fit for commercial, consumer, property and securities work.

Check the latest enrolment fees and the AIBE schedule on the official Bar Council of India and Bar Council of Andhra Pradesh websites before you apply.
